Matthew 22:15-22

Matthew 22:1-14

When was the last time someone said, “You don’t need to bring anything. Just come”—and you actually believed them?

Many of us find it easier to help than to be helped. We’re happy to cook, organise, lend a hand or bring a plate. But receiving someone’s kindness can leave us feeling that we ought to contribute something first. Perhaps we carry that same feeling into our relationship with God: Once I’ve done more, tried harder or sorted myself out, then I’ll come.

Jesus tells a story that invites us to pause. A king has prepared a wedding feast for his son. The table is set, the meal is ready, and the invitation goes out: “Everything is ready. Come.”

What might those words mean for you this week? For the responsibilities that keep piling up? For the regret you quietly carry? For the grief or worry that follows you even into otherwise happy moments?

There is something deeply comforting in the picture of a God who prepares a feast and wants us there. Yet receiving his welcome can also reveal what holds us back. Join us for worship, and take a little time with the daily devotions throughout the week. Together, we’ll listen to this invitation, reflect on the welcome Jesus gives, and discover how his kindness makes room in our lives for others.

Come with your questions, your weariness and your hopes. There is good news waiting to be heard.

Belonging to Christ • We grow, connect, and thrive • To serve others

HELP US BRING 100 YEARS OF MEMORIES TO LIFE

We are creating a special display celebrating the people and moments that have shaped St Paul's over the past century.

Do you have memorabilia to share?

We are especially looking for framed photographs of weddings, confirmations, church picnics, celebrations and other treasured moments from congregational life.

Please bring your items to the church office by Thursday afternoon so they can be included in the display.

Every photograph and keepsake helps tell our story.
Thank you for helping us remember, give thanks and celebrate together.

In Loving Memory of

Don Weier

With sadness, yet trusting in the hope we have in Jesus Christ, we share that Don Weier died overnight on Monday, 5 October, surrounded by loved ones. Don is now with his Lord in paradise.

We remember in our prayers Don's wife, Gaye, his daughters, Joanne Schache and Elise Bliss, and their families. We also hold in prayer all who mourn the loss of a much-loved husband, father, grandfather and friend.

Don's funeral will be held at
Living Faith Lutheran Church,

Youth & Family Program

Help Intercept give young people a brighter future

Sometimes a little practical support, offered at just the right time, can make a life-changing difference for a young person.

Each year, Lutheran Services' Intercept Youth & Family Program in Caboolture raises funds for its bursary program. These bursaries help young people across the Moreton Bay region overcome practical barriers and take important steps towards education, employment and greater independence.

Last year, the generosity of supporters helped young people access:

- ✓ dance lessons that encouraged confidence and connection
- ✓ parking for regular hospital appointments
- ✓ driving lessons
- ✓ White Card and First Aid training to improve employment opportunities
- ✓ a bicycle for travelling to school

These may seem like simple things, but for a young person facing difficult circumstances, they can open the door to hope, confidence and a more secure future.

Monday: Everything Is Ready

Matthew 22:1-4

“What can I bring?” We often ask that when someone invites us for a meal. We appreciate their kindness, but arriving empty-handed can feel uncomfortable. Surely we should contribute something! That feeling can follow us into our relationship with God. We imagine we need to bring better behaviour, stronger faith or a more impressive prayer life before we can receive his welcome. But the king’s message is simple: “Everything is ready. Come.” The meal has already been prepared. The guests are invited to receive it. Through Jesus, God has prepared our salvation. Jesus lived faithfully, carried our sins to the cross and rose again. Our forgiveness rests on what he has done. You can come with empty hands. You can come with a tired heart. You can come knowing you have nothing impressive to offer. Faith receives the gift Jesus gives. Even when that faith feels small, his promise remains trustworthy. Today, pause before beginning your list of things to do. Remember that God’s love for you is already given in Christ. Everything is ready. You are invited.

- > How do you feel when someone offers kindness you cannot repay?
- > What do you sometimes think you must do to earn God’s welcome?
- > What would it mean to receive his grace today?

Jesus, thank you for preparing everything I need for forgiveness and life. Help me trust your promise and receive your gifts with open hands. Amen.

Tuesday: Wanted at the Table

Isaiah 25:1-6

There is a difference between being allowed to attend and being warmly wanted. Perhaps you have experienced both. At one gathering, you wondered whether anyone noticed you. At another, someone smiled, made room and said, “We’re so glad you’re here.” Isaiah gives us a beautiful picture of God’s generosity: a feast prepared for all peoples. It is a picture of abundance, celebration and welcome. The God who prepares this feast is also a refuge for the poor and needy. His generosity reaches people who are struggling, weary or overlooked. Sometimes we quietly assume that God welcomes other people more gladly than he welcomes us. We know our weaknesses. We remember our failures. We wonder whether we really belong. Jesus brings us into the Father’s welcome through his death and resurrection. We belong because of him. When we gather for worship, we hear that welcome again. In Holy Communion, Jesus gives us his body and blood for our forgiveness. His gift is personal: for you. You are wanted at his table. Let that promise accompany you today, especially in moments when you feel unnoticed or unsure of your worth.

- > When has someone helped you feel warmly wanted?
- > What makes it difficult to believe God’s welcome is for you?
- > Who might appreciate being noticed and included today?

Gracious Father, thank you for welcoming me through Jesus. Help me rest in your love and share your kindness with someone who feels overlooked. Amen.

Wednesday: The Invitation Comes Again

Matthew 22:1-4

Some invitations sit unanswered. We mean to reply. Then the washing needs hanging out, the phone rings, and another day disappears. Life becomes crowded surprisingly quickly.

In Jesus’ parable, the invited guests refuse to come. The king then sends more servants, repeating his invitation and describing what he has prepared. There is something tender about that repeated invitation. The king wants his guests to share the celebration. We may recognise something of ourselves here. We become distracted. We keep God at a distance. Sometimes even serving him fills our days so completely that we forget to receive his care. At other times, shame makes us hesitate. We think we should sort ourselves out first. This passage invites us to take our response seriously. It also lets us hear the king’s invitation again: “Everything is ready. Come.” Today, God’s word reaches you where you are. You can bring him your distractions, your reluctance and your need. Jesus has opened the way through his cross. Take a quiet moment.

Read the invitation slowly. Let your answer be a simple prayer: “Lord, here I am. Help me receive what you give.”

- > What most often crowds out time to receive God’s care?
- > Are you keeping any part of your life at a distance from him?
- > Where could you make space to listen today?

Patient Lord, forgive my wandering attention and hesitant heart. Draw me close through your word and help me receive your gracious invitation. Amen.

Thursday: Bring Your Tears

Isaiah 25:7-9

“You must be feeling better by now.” Words like these can leave us feeling very alone. Grief rarely follows a timetable. A familiar song, an empty chair or an ordinary afternoon can bring the ache back unexpectedly. Isaiah promises that God will swallow up death forever and wipe away tears from every face. What a tender picture. The God who prepares the feast also sees the tears of those he welcomes. You do not have to hide your sadness from him. You can bring the person you miss, the news you fear and the exhaustion you struggle to explain. Jesus knows sorrow. He wept at the grave of his friend Lazarus. He entered death himself and rose again. His resurrection gives us a sure hope beyond the losses we experience now. That hope does not require us to stop crying. We can grieve while trusting his promise. Perhaps today you feel joyful. Perhaps you feel fragile. Perhaps both feelings are sitting side by side. God welcomes you as you are. His promise reaches into this day: death will not have the final word. Christ will. Until then, you can place your tears in his care.

- > What sorrow or worry would you like to bring to God?
- > How does Jesus’ resurrection speak to that sorrow?
- > Who might need your quiet companionship today?

Compassionate Father, hold me close in my sadness. Thank you that Jesus has overcome death. Give me comfort, patient hope and people who will walk beside me. Amen.

Friday: You Can Tell Him

Philippians 4:4-7

Sometimes our worries become loudest when everything else becomes quiet. We lie in bed rehearsing tomorrow’s conversation, wondering about someone we love or calculating how everything will get done. Paul encourages us to bring our concerns to God in prayer, with thanksgiving. We can tell him what we need. This invitation can be wonderfully freeing. Prayer does not require polished words or a calm heart. “Lord, I’m worried.” “Lord, I don’t know what to do.” “Lord, help me through today.” Through Jesus, we belong to the Father. We can speak honestly because we are already welcomed and loved. Paul also reminds us that the Lord is near. Our joy rests in his presence, even when circumstances remain difficult. Giving thanks can help us notice the care already surrounding us: a friend’s message, strength for one more task, a moment of rest, the promise of forgiveness. God’s peace does not mean every problem immediately disappears. His peace guards us in Christ while we face those problems. If worry returns, you can pray again. You have not failed. Your Father is still listening.

- > Which concern keeps returning to your thoughts?
- > How might you turn it into a simple, honest prayer?
- > What small gift can you thank God for today?

Heavenly Father, you know what weighs on my heart. Thank you that I can tell you everything. Guard me in Christ’s peace and help me trust your care for today. Amen.

Saturday: Making Room

Philippians 4:1-3, 8-9

An extra chair can say a great deal. It can say, “There is room for you.” So can a phone call, an unhurried conversation or an invitation to share a simple meal. Paul writes affectionately to the Philippians. He also names a strained relationship and asks the community to help. Life together includes real differences and hurts. People who belong to Christ still need patience, forgiveness and support. He encourages them to attend to what is true, honourable, just and worthy of praise, and to put what they have learned into practice. God’s welcome begins to shape our everyday relationships. We have been received through Jesus. His forgiveness frees us to acknowledge our own faults. His kindness helps us notice another person’s need. His generosity makes room in our lives for others. You do not need an impressive dining room or a perfect menu. A cup of tea and a listening ear may be a lovely beginning. Nor must you solve every strained relationship today. You can ask God for wisdom about one faithful step. As this week ends, hear the invitation again: “Everything is ready. Come.” Receive Christ’s gifts. Then carry his welcome into the ordinary places you go.

- > Who could you make room for this week?
- > Is there a relationship that needs gentleness, prayer or support?
- > What simple act could express Christ’s welcome?

Jesus, thank you for making room for me. Shape my thoughts, words and actions through your grace. Help me offer others the kindness I have received from you. Amen.

CONVERSATIONS

Share your highs and lows, or respond to the following:

1. Can you remember a party you enjoyed attending? What made it special for you?
2. Jesus told a parable about a wedding banquet (read Matthew 22:1-10). Who ended up receiving invitations and attending?

BIBLE READINGS

*Read the following Bible readings throughout this week.
Talk about what words or phrases stand out for you.*

S	Matthew 22:1-14	Parable of the wedding feast
M	Luke 14:15-24	Parable of the great banquet
T	Daniel 5:1-31	The banquet of Belshazzar
W	Esther 5:1-8, 7:1-10	Esther hosts a banquet
T	Exodus 32:1-14	The golden calf
F	Philippians 4:1-9	Closing appeal for unity

VERSE OF THE WEEK

Rejoice in the Lord always.
I will say it again: Rejoice!

PHILIPPIANS 4:4

CREATIVE RESPONSE

Choose a mealtime this week where you will all be home together and pick a theme for the menu and even dress up to match the theme.

You might choose a country (e.g. Mexican) or a decade (e.g. 70's) or something like 'movie magic'.

MEALTIME PRAYER

Lord God, as we enjoy this earthly feast, prepare us for the feast of heaven. Thank you for all you give and all you do. Amen.

PRAYER

Lord, we give our worries to you.
Please help us
and give us peace.
Amen.

ACTION RESPONSE

Isaiah 25 describes a special feast that God is preparing for his people (read Isaiah 25:6).

Plan a special meal to show your appreciation to significant people in your lives e.g. school teachers, church staff, children's ministry volunteers, mentors. Work together to organise invitations and prepare the meal. Make this an annual event on your household calendar.

BLESSING

May God watch over your heart and your mind and keep you safe.
